THE MALTESE DERBY.

Horse racing is a favorite sport the world over, but it is doubtful whether any nation can boast of a more unique race course on claim more remarkable ideas of the sport than the Maltese. Once a year, says the Wide World Magazine, the road skirting Silema harbor is reserved as a race course, and the people turn out in thousands to back their favorites. There is no regulation of the course; the crowd simply clears out of the way as the horses come along. The jockeys ride without bridles or saddles and each carries a whip in either hand—one for his own mount, the other to keep back any horse which may try to overtake him. We saw one of the spectators deliberately trip a horse up by putting his leg out, at grave risk to himself. These things, however incredible as they seem to sportsmen in this country, are taken as quite a matter of course, and consequently hardly a year goes by without a fatality of some kind. All things considered, it is not likely that the "go-as-you-please" rules of this Maltese Derby are likely to commend themselves to our turf authorities.

The chances are that if Gov. Cramer could take a good swing at the game there it would speedily become less popular.

STOCK OWNERS ARE WARNED AGAINST IMPOSTERS.

Reports are now beginning to come in to the department from several of the states quarantined for the foot and mouth disease that persons who have no connection whatsoever with the department are attempting to pass themselves off as federal inspectors. There are several possible motives that might account for the existence of these imposters. In the outbreak of 1903 there were instances of men who obtained money from credulous victims who believed that in this way they would escape the inconvenience of quarantine and disinfection. This is, of course, a very simple form of extortion. Another motive may be the sale of some quack remedy for the disease.

Stock owners can protect themselves very easily against this fraud, for there is no specific remedy for the foot and mouth disease. Since the germ has never been isolated, it has never been possible as yet to find any serum that would act either as a cure of preventive, and the public may be quite certain that anyone who says that he is an employee of the department of agriculture, and at the same time attempts to sell or even recommend anything of the sort, is simply an imposter. For this reason stock owners are warned not to allow strangers to visit their stock or attempt any demonstrations of so-called cures by injections or otherwise.

There is, moreover, very great danger that such people might disseminate the disease. It is a well known fact that the germs can be carried on clothing. In infected territory, therefore, it is quite possible that a man who has come in contact with stricken animals may bring the disease to a perfectly healthy herd. This also accounts for much of the spread of hog cholera.

The department therefore recommends all farmers to keep their animals from contact with all save those who have definite business with them.

HOW GERMANY HAS TAKEN CARE OF HER UNEMPLOYED.

In the American Magazine Ida M. Tarbell writes an article entitled, "Keeping Men at Work." She shows how the new principles of scientific management can prevent the closing down of factories and shops in critical times, and she cites specific instances of employers who have worked out these principles successfully. She says that we also ought to have co-operative employment bureaus and at the same time develop such a co-operation between cities, and between cities and country, so that the labor market would be under entire control. In respect to what Germany has done along these lines she says:

"For over twenty years Germany has been handling her laboring men and women in this intelligent and humane fashion. Each state in the empire has fifty or more labor exchanges. Each capital city has an exchange which acts as a clearing house for the provincial exchanges. Between these labor clearing houses in the capital cities there is a steady flow of communication. If a man cannot be placed in his own city he may be in another; if not in his state, then in another. Work is found for him. A million or more men and women are placed every year by this organization. It is one of the many admirable ways in which Germany has been preserving and training men that when the time came she might have them for the slaughter she planned."

THE ANTIQUITY OF TOYS.

Up to the present, nothing, with which man has had to do in the progress and development of the human race, has changed as little as toys. Ages ago, infantile Egypt played with dolls, boats, balls, dishes, wagons, miniature horses and other animals. The little Greeks and Romans amused themselves with much the same playthings, except for the further possession of a rattle, which some wise Grecian gentleman very kindly invented for them.

We know this from the chance words of a few early writers, from the sculptures which have been saved of the different ancient nations which represent children in the act of playing—and also from the fact that many small toys, closely analogous to many toys of today, have been found in the tombs of the children of bygone ages—dolls, balls, boats, tops and tiny dishes, added to which there were small warlike implements for the boys, such as javelins and bows and arrows.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All Druggists.

In the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in New York, there is a fascinating terracotta boat, complete to the smallest detail. It was found in the tomb of an Egyptian boy of four thousand years ago.

Take the doll, one of the few of the very old toys which fit into the modern scheme of playthings that teach, as girls always have and always will play with dolls because they develop and foster the birthright of every woman, mother-love.

St. Simps says that when it sets in to rain, we usually have a wet spell.

Very careless of Kelley and Smith to forget to leave a forwarding address when they left town.

Uncle Hi says that it 'pears like some of 'em hunters can't read, the way they disregard the "No Hunting" signs.

Speaking of the grand jury—this is also the season when some think it very convenient to spend a couple of weeks hunting.

The Ardmoreite says that there is a Chickasha man who likes to dance the tango with his wife. A diligent search is being inaugurated here for the gentleman.

It might be well at that to compel the "undergrads" to speak literally of their studies—that is, tell how many there are carrying and how many they are dragging.

One way to beat the bill collectors, according to W. E. McGowan, who is here from the east side attending court is to be called away to a session of the grand jury.

One Chickasha business firm has adopted the following slogan which is appended to all their correspondence—"Keep the war in Europe. Let's talk business over here."

Keep It Handy for Rheumatism. No use to squirm and wince and try to wear out your rheumatism. It will wear you out instead. Apply some of Sloan's Liniment. Need not rub it in—Just let it penetrate all through the affected parts, relieve the soreness and draw the pain. You get ease at once and feel so much better you want to go right out and tell other sufferers about Sloan's. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25 cents of any druggist and have it in the house—against colds, sore and swollen joints, lumbago, sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief. Buy a bottle today.—Adv. d&w

Gen. Joffre has established his headquarters seven miles behind the firing line. Gen. Joffre is not only a great military genius, but he is one of the world's greatest exponents of the safety first movement.—Globe-Democrat.

JUST A THOUGHT
Ere the Day Is Gone.

Life.

"It is one of the provoking, but interesting things about life that it will never stop a moment for admiration. No sooner do you pause to enjoy it, or philosophize over it, or poetize about it, than it is up and away and the next time you glance around, it is vanishing over the hill—with the wind in its garments and the sun in its hair. If you do not go on with life, it will go on without you."—David Grayson.
